REGISTRATION IS ALSO NECESSARY BEFORE PAYMENT

Information Asked For in Detail From Prospective Applicants For Social Credit Dividends

Prepared for the registration of Alberta residents, forms to be filled in by individuals applying for the Social Credit basic dividend, together with a covenant—agreeing to co-operate with the government to the fullest extent, were made available on Thursday by Premier William Aberhart.

Forms will be ready for distribution to members of the legislative assembly, who are in charge of registration in their own districts on Monday, and registration will commence next week.

APPROVED BY CABINET
Copies released by the Premier were typewritten, but were replicas of the draft submitted to the printer and approved by the cabinet.

The application form seeks information on name, address, nationality, income, decreased income and purchasing power as a result of depressed years, possible income, names of children under 21 with estimated increased consumption and other matters, all of which are designed to assist the government in fixing the amount of the dividend.

MUST AGREE TO ASSIST
The covenant is an agreement between the applicant and the government, whereby the applicant agrees to work for and assist the government in every way.

Below are copies of the two forms:
Alberta Citizens' Registration Covenant

4.—To tender no Alberta credit in payment of provincial taxes, licenses, royalties, fines, etc., until such time as the Alberta government shall be able to accept all or part on the taxes, etc.

In return for my agreement, I understand that the Alberta Government covenants and agrees as follows:

1.—To establish, as early as possible, and maintain a just rate of wages with reasonable hours of labor.

2.—To grant interest-free loans in Alberta Credit on such terms and security as shall be mutually agreed upon, not exceeding 2% for administration charges, for the building of a home or the establishment of a registered citizen in his own enterprise if conducive to the economic requirements of the province.

3.—To give monthly dividends to all registered Alberta citizens, and to increase the same as the total production of the province will allow.

4.—To redeem when possible, Alberta credit with Canadian currency for the purpose of allowing the member to take up residence outside the province or for other essential requirements.

With full understanding of these several declarations I gladly enter into covenant with the Alberta Government and with my fellow-citizens. It witnesses whereof I affix my signature in the presence of WINNIPEG, July 30.—Results of the Manitoba general election, held on Wednesday, showed the combined non-government forces of the province had secured the final result in the seven doubtful constituencies of Monday's Manitoba election, where the result may not be known for several days. Slow return of ballot boxes in outlying rural constituencies delayed the work of counting and tabulating the results. Reports from five constituencies determined the election in three and four-cornered ridings.

Protect Power Consumers An Editorial

THE aldermanic investigation into the recent breakdowns at the Civic Power Plant shows clearly the futility of attempting to place the blame on employees at the plant.

The men, for the most part, are tried and true servants of unquestionable loyalty, with many years' service to their credit. The trouble is that machinery wears out and many of the men are operating machines rendered obsolete by time and uncertain through wear and tear.

BUSINESS men and industrialists in the city are liable to have their operations further jeopardized unless steps are taken to ensure continuance of power supply. The same outworn machinery that caused the power breaks last May is liable to cause further breakdowns.

As a matter of business prudence, and as an insurance against similar disruptions of service until modern equipment can be purchased and installed, the city should make arrangements with the Calgary Power Company for connection with its power lines, without further delay.

THERE was no need for the power equipment of the city to fall into a state of obsolescence. The utilities of the City of Edmonton have returned rich profits yearly. Provision was made for setting aside a portion of the profits for the replacement of the equipment as it wore itself out. Unfortunately these funds have been diverted from their intended use, to other purposes, to the detriment of the plant and the loss of consumers of electric power.

Until such time as steps are taken to finance and install needed modern equipment, the Council owes it to itself and to the citizens to see that consumers are protected against a repetition of the losses of May 26, 27 and 28 last.

Alberta Government Proposes Scrip Pay To City For Relief

First concrete offer to the city on the property certificates came from the provincial government Wednesday afternoon, when Aid Guy Patterson, Social Credit councillor, announced the government was prepared to take the certificates in lieu of cash for payment of the province's share of civic relief costs for August.

A second proposal was that in addition to this, the city also accept $50,000 worth of the bonds. The city would receive a cash relief grant of $50,000 a month.

The new case is a surprise to some aldermen attending a special meeting of council called late Wednesday afternoon to deal with civic matter. Alderman H. J. Macdonald, J. T. McCreath, J. W. Fry and R. E. Foote called the offer before council took definite action.

Council finally accepted a notice

STRAIGHT FIGHT BETWEEN THE GOBBOGRS

POWER BREAK IS BLAMED ON CITY COUNCIL

There is no evidence that the power break was caused by the city council, in his report, Aid Macdonald stated: "In the operation of any plant, there must be expected accidents to happen occasionally in spite of all precautions and your committee believes that the happenings in May were accidents that could not have been avoided and that no blame is to be attached to any person in respect of these accidents."

NEGLECTED POINT

Dealing with reported lack of transformer capacity, Mr. Macdonald pointed out that evidence showed this lack had not existed for a long time but that there was a delay in that there otherwise would have been and that therefore this point was "neglected in relation to the breakdown."

With reference to interruption in water service caused by pumps stopping when the electric power failed, Aid Macdonald urged that the city have a limit of time for the replacement of water towers which could be used in the event of a breakdown.

"Your committee feels that as a lot of the equipment of the plant is old, it is too much to expect the city to keep it in such good condition as to be able to replace it in the event of a breakdown."

"In the anxiety to make the utility make as much profit as possible, it cut down the budget and much has been sacrificed to prevent the city from making a profit which otherwise should go to the utility to pay for repairs and replacements and improvements."

CANT EXONERATE

Commenting on Aid Macdonald's report, Ald. Blaha said that he could agree with a lot of it, but he was not prepared to exonerate anyone from blame for the transformer equipment should be replaced by a new one, he said.

"I am sure that the city is not spending more money," he observed.

Present Premier Gaining Strength Every Day

Polling Date is August 17

By THOMAS WATLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

MONTREAL, July 29.—"The Quebec election is heading for a stalemate since the provincial election there, no well-informed political circles indicate. Polling day is August 17."

However, had no C.C.P. or Social Credit complications, no variorious independents, but a straight struggle between the God-blessed Liberals and the Duplessis Conservatives, the new go under the caption of L'Union Nationale.

GOUDIN INACTIVE
Paul Goudin, who started the downfall for the Taschereau government, has retired from the political scene for the time being, but may come out to go-Goudin any day.

Mr. Goudin will not support the party of the hasty-bird of practical politics, in his opinion his time and after the elections may resume his campaign for the Canadian national union.

Not the rather alluring national heretofore presented by Mr. Goudin, but the one that he has now presented, the veteran Nationalist who has been a member of the Liberal party since 1910.

Mr. Bourassa is little heard of now. He has followed much of the same line of action as the other day that the English language of the Conservative party.

where did you find her in the morning?"

"In the bedroom upstairs," "Was that the same bedroom Dr. Thompson occupied?"

"Yes, it was," "Now how many beds were in the bedroom when you found the body?"

"There were two," "And when you found them in the morning, were they both occupied?"

"No, only one was," "Did you ever see Miss Taylor in bed?"

"Yes," "How did that happen?" "I never breakfasted in a bed," Dr. Thompson said.

NO ATTEMPT TO RESTRICT WELSH COAL

Senator Webster Tells Commission Market Protection Was Aim

MONTREAL, July 30.—Senator Louis C. Webster told the Royal Commission Wednesday that since 1933 neither he nor his colleagues have been trying to restrict the importation of Welsh anthracite into Canada.

Testimony delivered before Dr. H. M. Tory, of Ottawa, at the commission's probe into the Canadian anthracite situation, the former president of Canadian Import company said there was no agreement, "either written or tacit," with the object of restricting imports from bringing in Welsh coal.

In 1933 we were accused of doing something," Senator Webster said. "We were tried and our fine and bond to the judgment of the courts. We are not to be fined again."

Quintained by Commission Counsel Bernard Bismont, Senator Webster acknowledged the fact his company was trying to protect the market they built up for Welsh coal. "But we are more particularly trying to protect the Canadian people," he added.

"There is any satisfaction in life that I have had, it is the fact that I have been able to protect Canadians by building up the Welsh market," the senator said.

FRY WOULD CUT INTEREST RATE ON CITY BONDS

With a view to protecting Edmonton from loss on $800,000 of Alberta bonds which the city holds and on which the province has cut interest at an average of 30 per cent., Ald. J. W. Fry, at a special council meeting Wednesday, proposed that the city without payment of corresponding percentage of interest on the $2,000,000 of Edmonton bonds held by the government. He gave this a notice of motion, and the plan will be dealt with by aldermen at a subsequent meeting.

The notice of motion reads: "Because of the action of the government in reducing interest on city bonds, that we without a corresponding percentage of interest on City of Edmonton bonds owned by the province through its sinking fund or associate board."

Ald. Fry pointed out his plan would not interfere with negotiations now proceeding between the city and province in an attempt to get the government to make some concession to Edmonton in connection with the bond interest cut.

ECKVILLE MAN CLAIMING METHOD OF ERADICATION OF DESTRUCTIVE WEEDS

After 10 years of extensive study John Mottus, of Eckville, Alberta, who came from Ontario, has discovered a solution for the destruction of the sow and Canada thistle and is in Edmonton with the intention of introducing his discovery and dispensing it for the benefit of the farmers of Alberta.

Coming to the Bulletin office Wednesday afternoon with the signatures of 76 farmers in the Wetaskiwin district, who have experimented with his discovery, all of whom claim that their land is now free from this destructive weed. Mottus stated that if the farmers would follow his instructions he would rid the whole province of Canada thistle.

He stated that he would release the instruction of his discovery to farmers in Alberta on Monday, August 3.

His plan based on meteorological and astronomical observation, resulted in the discovery of a secret of nature that at what time of the year the plant is weakest and what time it does the most damage.

His only request is that persons who use his method and follow his instructions will let him know of their success.

Farmer Dies
PINCHER CREEK, Alta., July 30.—George Levesque, 40, apparently fell from a hay stack onto his head Wednesday. He died instantly when a pony reared his head. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

Either a better settlement should be secured or a better guarantee should be given on any equipment which Edmonton purchased from this company in future, said Ald. Elsie Reid.

Support was then given a suggestion by Ald. W. Fry that commissioners attempt to get a better deal from the company.

LONDON PRESS HAS COMMENT ON CANADIANS

Morning Post Says Londoners Favorably Impress With Guests

LONDON, July 30.—The Canadian pilgrimage reception at Buckingham Palace featured morning newspapers today.

Many pictures of the King's intimate appearance among the service men were printed, while Prime Minister Baldwin's moving appeal to the pilgrims earlier in the day was the theme of many editorials.

TAKE PRIDE IN THEM
The Morning Post expressed the hope the visitors from overseas had been as favorably impressed with London and its people as the Londoners had been with their guests, and added: "We can assure our readers that we are not only welcome them but take pride in them."

The Daily Mail editorially welcomed the Canadians and said: "We can never forget that we are one with Canada. Her soldier sons were pre-eminent for courage and endurance in the forces of the British Empire. Their history records and their noble deeds will be remembered here with gratitude and affection."

The Times, in an editorial, said:

HOME OF TRUTH
"It is the wish and belief of all Englishmen that our Canadian visitors, whether they speak French or English, will continue to regard Westminster as the home of their own traditions and a sanctuary belonging to themselves."

"England does not presume to thank Canada for the glorious service rendered at so terrible a cost on Vimy Ridge and many another terrible field of battle. That service was not rendered to England but to the Empire that is greater than any of its constituent parts, and to something greater than the Empire, a vision of ultimate eternal righteousness in the conscience of suffering mankind."

MONTREAL, July 30.—The Canadian freighter Cornwallis leaves Montreal for the West Indies today, taking back to Trinidad two Chinese stowaways whose companion committed suicide during the inland trip.

Silent and brooding the two Asiatic stowaways sat in the hold of the vessel their hands waiting to be turned over to authorities of the inland colony.

Power Equipment
Disappointed by the contribution of $500 offered by the city of Edmonton toward damage of $8,000 which a house here sustained by a power substation several months ago and which was caused in part by a house here situated close to the city by the company, city commissioners today urged city commissioners to try and get a larger contribution from the electrical firm.

Ad. J. T. McGrath objected to the recommendation by commissioners that the settlement of $1,500 be accepted by the city, claiming that the loss had been in a machine had been the major cause of the explosion.

"ALL NIGHT CLUB" ROSTER CANADIAN ALPINE SOCIETY RAPIDLY GAINING MEMBERS

By MOLLY MCGEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

JACQUES, Alta., July 30.—"The All Night Club" of the Alpine Climbers of Canada is rapidly gaining members, the main qualification being that the entrant spend the major part of the night on the peak or slopes of a high mountain.

Within the past few days more than 10 names have been added to the "All Night Club" roster. Three parties from the Fyatt Creek camp in Jasper spent from dusk till dawn on the snowy slopes of the Rockies.

The first party to ascend Mount Xerxes, 8,000-foot peak discovered and tentatively named by Alpine Club officials last fall, left the main camp last Friday and spent 36 hours on the mountain. Dr. Max Struma, director of Bryn Mawr, Pa., clinic, led with Miss Caro Still, Edmonton; Miss M. C. Schmidt, Baker, East Orange, N.J., and Walter A. Burke, Jr., New York, following.

The climbers reached the peak first dark. They ran out of food and had taken no blankets, so Miss Struma, who had been at the camp in half and the two women used this for covering. They arrived back in camp shortly after dawn the following day.

Mount Fyatt, 11,000 feet, overlooking the camp and climbed but never before, has claimed several parties for an overnight stay within the last four days.

SECOND ASCENT
With Norris Neave of Winnipeg leading, Miss Nan McKay of Saskatoon, B. P. Crow of Chicago made a second ascent and returned the following morning. The third ascent was made by two groups. One was led by Dr. Struma and included Dr. Helen Zillmer, Milwaukee, and Walter A. Burke, Jr., New York. The other included R. H. Clegg, Calgary, Howard Carlson, Brooklyn, and Mrs. B. McNeil, Portland, Ore.

NORFOLK, July 30.—With work completed at eight landing fields in the North Bay district, the department of National Defence will close its flying headquarters here Friday, July 31, Lt. Col. J. L. Lavenex, officer in charge of administration, announced Wednesday. The office opened July 1, 1933.

OLYMPIC TORCH DISTURBANCES

VIENNA, July 30.—The Austrian government last night cancelled parts of its recently published amnesty for so-called "administrative prisoners" following a Nazi demonstration as the Olympic torch was carried through Vienna.

The prisoners, who were escorted by police order rather than court decision, must remain in jail.

Diplomatic circles feared the newly-founded Austro-German political friendship, under which the amnesty decrees were issued, would be seriously strained.

Police with aving clubs dispersed the disorderly crowd which gathered as the traditional torch was carried through the streets on its way to Berlin from Greece for the opening of the Olympic games.

The appearance of the Olympic torch touched off the suppressed political passions of the Socialists who were outlawed by the 1934 Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

The torch, reported, "Holy flame take us greetings to Hitler" was heard during the Nazi demonstration, which took place with 10,000 packed around the Ringstrasse for the ceremony.

LOOKING THEM OVER

By JACK KELLY
We Shed a Tear For Those Olympians—Cards Serve Notice—Rumor Killed

The more we hear and read about the conditions under which athletes from Canada and the United States made the trip to the Berlin Olympics, the more profound becomes our amazement that any athlete has a hankering to go. If there is any truth in the rumors of copy that are crackling across the Atlantic by cable and radio, it would appear that being in solitary confinement in some remote building would be freedom in comparison with being on an Olympic team. In the battle you can sleep when you want to or sing "Frankie and Johnnie" at 3:30 a.m. without much personal danger.

The Eleanor Harnett affair is of course a case in point, but there have been a score of lesser incidents of a like nature. For instance, when the liner carrying the American team docked at Le Havre the other day, no athlete was allowed to go ashore, despite the fact that the ship was in port for 16 hours. Several went anyhow, included among them being Glen Cunningham.

It would seem that Olympic team officials could save themselves a lot of grief and maintain a much better morale if they would simply put it up to the athletes to behave themselves in return for their boat ride—a sort of sporting proposition. This business of feeling called upon to make examples, read the riot act and stand up in the corner smacks too much of army discipline. What is more, this high and sacred cult of diets, early morning jagers and aptan exercises is mostly unadulterated hooey that passes under the impressive name of "training". It is the spirit of the athlete that counts here, not the records or the headlines, and you can't put that spirit in him with an algebra equation in vitamins and bugles blowing him to bed and out of it.

Percy Page and his Grads are the greatest proof in the world of our contention. They never worry about diet. They don't carry special drinking water with them when they travel or go in for any of a score of equally silly fancies. They just use common, ordinary human sense, and no one can deny that they are getting marvelous results.

Unless you have been through these training mills, you have no idea of just how far "conditioning" is sometimes carried. I've seen rugby players drilled so hard in preparation for a game that they staggered into their rooms after a workout, felt twitching on the bed and actually cried like kids. And I've seen sprinters and dash men trained down to such a bundle of nerves that if you snapped your fingers behind them they would jump as if it were the starting gun. However, I have never seen those gridders win a game, those sprinters break a mark. They didn't have a thing left when they had to make that final effort.

Cardinals Hit War Path

Last night down at Ponoka, Dick Speer definitely served notice that his Cardinals are not going to coast through the second half of the Northern League schedule simply because they have a play-off fight clinched.

"Anybody that can keep me from finishing at the top of the second half of the schedule will have to take hellbore from the Cardinals," Dick Speer said. "I never have and I never will sit back and toss a ball game away even if I don't happen to need it."

In the event that the Cards should finish at the top of the second half, the teams in second and third places will play off for the right to enter the league championship series. Such a series would be two out of three, while the championship series will be four out of seven games.

It Was Just a Rumor

The mail brings a letter from P. W. Abbott, K.C., managing director of the Edmonton Exhibition Association, in which he explains that a scurrilous story is being circulated that there was more money in the July 15 race card here than the $1,725.30 which was paid to Bill McEllan.

That is quite correct, but the implication is all wrong. As explained before in this column, the Exhibition Association takes a cut of 7 per cent and the provincial government a cut of 5 per cent on all bets. The pool in question was exactly $1,964.10, and the deductions brought it down to what McEllan figures put these figures in the hands of the chief calculator on the pari-mutuels and his two assistants, checked by members of the R.C.M.P., and backed up by affidavits.

Anyhow, who is kidding? Bill McEllan is tickled to death. It wasn't your pot and it certainly wasn't mine.

Homesick Boxer Taken Off U.S. Olympic Team

Officials Sharply Deny Rule Infractions—Way Back Already

By ALAN GOLDBERGER

BERLIN, July 30.—Boxing officials sharply denied today a story that with the athletes of 50 nations struggling to practice in between thunderstorms and elaborate machinery moving at full speed for the grand opening of the 11th Olympic stadium, the United States contingent contributed no other chapter of disturbing developments.

Two boxers, labelled "homesick cases," were shipped home on the Manhattan, the first home return of the U.S. Olympic team since the outbreak of the Spanish flu epidemic in 1918.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL COCHRANE Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

Said Duncy, "Gee, this cloud is nice and soft. I'll bet that we'll have twice as much fun riding on it as we did upon the star."

"The question, though, is where we'll land. I really cannot understand how our cloud can get down to earth from 'way up where we are."

"Oh, there you go, you crazy lot!"

"On, there you go! See what I've found!"

(READ THE STORY THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

You always do an awful lot of worrying," said Duncy. "Why not let us have a break of clear moonlight, and Duncy cried, 'Now we're all right. There was no need of getting scared. You see, we're safe and sound.'"

"With it I paint the Milky Way. If it's really yours, you'll stay. I'll show you how I do it. It's a pretty sight to see."

He gave his brush a swish on two, and made what he had said come true. A streak of white across the sky was brilliant as could be. It should not be allowed.

"You're right. It's all around us now, but we'll get right out, somehow," said Winky. "My but it's next story!"

Curious World

THE STAR REFERRED TO ABOVE IS MADE UP OF MATTER SO DENSE THAT ONE CUBIC INCH OF IT WOULD WEIGH ABOUT 600 TONS. IT IS ONLY A SMALL STAR, NOT MORE THAN HALF AS LARGE AS THE EARTH, AND IS OF THE 30th MAGNITUDE, FAR TOO FAINT TO BE SEEN WITH THE NAKED EYE.

RESORT HOTEL

Deck Morgan

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ANN HAMILTON, a young secretary in a large business office, was to travel across to make plans for her two-week vacation.
BILL WARE, travel bureau employee, persuaded her to go to Lake Racine. Bill is obviously attracted by Ann, but she gives him little thought.
Ralph is the mountain resort and at first is lovely. Then she meets RALPH SPRING, the hotel boss.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER IV
RALPH SPRING, the head hotel man, was the most indifferent man Ann had ever known. In a few moments he had told her that he was only padding her canoe because he had nothing else to do, because all the other boats were out and because he needed some exercise.

Then he explained elaborately that it was part of his job to help entertain the guests. Most of the girls at Lake Racine were too silly for him, Ralph added. He was not interested in anything but building his bridge. A beautiful arch, a bridge was a far finer thing than the sight of a pretty girl.

Ralph was a college man, a sophomore engineer, working his way by this summer job. At the hotel. When he finished school he was going to the jungle and build some of those bridges he dreamed about all the time. Then he'd be happy.

"I trust you don't go in for the frivolous life, either," Ann said, her thoughts going back to her conversation with Bill Ware who worked at the travel office. "Why do all you men at your work with such a very correct? Don't you ever relax?"
"Have to get ahead," Ralph said shortly. "Then with an unrelenting abruptness, he said, 'Want to sit in the bottom of the canoe with me? Oh, don't worry! I won't get fresh with you. I just thought you could hear me better if you sat close by.'"

Then he began telling her about the new bridge across the Golden Gate. "Sculpturers" build all the bridges," he announced. "I think I'm from Georgia Tech." "Is that so?" Ann answered. "I suppose one day you'll build big bridges, up like the Washington bridge at night—all the lights twinkling up there like strings of beads against the dark sky. That's poetry," Ralph said seriously. "The most beautiful in the world is built over an ugly swamp in Mississippi. It's like a marble tower rising up out of the morass."

Ann eyed him smilingly. "Isn't that a little poetic, too, Mr. Spring?"
"Not now," he scoffed. "It's a strong stone bridge. It'll be here." Then he added bluntly, "Call me Ralph. Everybody does."
Ralph she laughed. "All right, Ralph."

He paused long enough in his paddling for a further look at her, facing him, her white face coming out coolly against the dark. She was laughing up at him, and he didn't know what to do about it. "This girl was different. She was—so elusive."

"I'll bet you've got some sense," he said. "Not like the rest of these girls."
"Thank you," she said prettily. "I don't enjoy much to give. I've always done road work in the summer. I haven't had time to dance, and all those silly things. Do you dance?" he added accusingly.
She said, with an air of defying him, "Of course, I dance. I adore it."

He didn't seem to mind the rebuff. "I suppose I could learn to dance. That is, if I wanted to waste any time. I'll tell you what—I'll let you teach me."

"Thank you," she said, laughing up at him again. But he seemed to be earnest that she added, "I'd be glad to teach you."

"We could have the boathouse to ourselves three nights a week," he said. "There's a radio in there."

"That would be very attractive," she said simply.

"Oh, I'll do something for you," he added generously. "For a month, I'll be engaged in thought. I'll teach you the new American crawl. And I could paddle you around in the canoe at night." He grinned amiably. "I'm not much on the romantic stuff, but I guess I could take lessons in that, too."

She laughed. "Do you know, I like you."

"I guess I like you, too," he said. "But I'm going to live in the jungle a few years before I think of getting married. I don't get any 'dead' she said, smiling.

"This way," he went on, dead earnest. "I think you have to build up this marriage business just like you'd build a bridge."
"With flying arches?" Ann asked, laughing. "I'm getting a little cold out here without a wrap," she added, but she didn't give Ralph Spring any ideas. He began to paddle the canoe toward the dock. "I'll send you my crew sweater," he said.

As a romantic possibility she counted Ralph's suit. When the canoe slipped up to the dock she saw the slight figure of a man standing there.
"Hello, Ralph," the newcomer said. "Been commuting with the lake again—alone?" But then he saw Ann smiling up at him and his mouth gaped. "Boey!"

"Miss Hamilton, this is Jaime Laird," the head boatman said. "Ann put out her hand, and Jaime smiled her from the canoe. He stood gazing at her in silent wonder."
"Say, you're not the lady of the moment?" he asked. "Look here, Ralph, I thought you were only interested in flying across the lake in a lady's foot. And what beautiful tootsies, lady! Jaime went on glibly. 'I've been looking for you.'"

"Ralph," Ann faced him; then she recalled her casual glimpse of this young fellow back in the city. He had been buying a vacation at the travel bureau where Bill Ware worked. Again she noted his expensive flannels. He was the ubiquitous Jaime Laird who followed the sunshine and the horses, and made the golfers nervous.

"All my life," Jaime said. "I came up here for a vacation. I've just recovered from an operation. And what do I find? A mountain lake inhabited entirely by fishes and other aquatic life. There isn't a girl in the town that I would like for a nurse."

"Perhaps you don't need a nurse," Ann said.
"Jaime needs a nurse," he said stammering. "He needs one who'll follow him around all day and say, 'You're wrong about the girl. I know a hotel full of them. And very few men around.'"

"On come on, beautiful, and go to the dance across the lake with me," Jaime put in. "Ralph doesn't care. He's an old stick-in-the-mud, except when he's swimming." The jaundiced young man turned to the boatman. "I'll race you across the lake at 6 in the morning," he said.

He spoke to Ann again. "I'm a better swimmer than the head boat man at your hotel. What do you think of that?"
Ann was eyeing this rich young man with a cool, appreciating glance. He was entirely too sure of himself. He seemed apologetic, lazy, utterly lacking in ambition, but he had charm, too. Ann wondered if he would be too charming if he knew what a steady job meant.

And suddenly she was interested in him. The dance across the lake meant the de luxe Monte Hotel where boys like Ralph couldn't afford to go. And had a secret desire to show off her new evening dress at a swank hotel dance, but she hesitated.

But Ann was amazed at her good luck in these two speedy introductions to personable young men. As long as Ralph was at her hotel she wouldn't be lonely. Jaime Laird held out the promise of something else.

Ralph turned to her and said, "Don't mind me. I've got my chores to do before I close up shop for the night."

Jaime clamped a firm hand on her elbow, to conduct her to the low-down, roof-top for the return trip to her hotel. But Ralph delivered this parting shot. "You get all the pretty girls, Jaime."

Jaime smiled and winked. "All right, but the lady of the resort. She didn't want him to think she was too eager, or too easy to be known."
